Joomper offers a set of free services for you. You only need a few registration data for each member of your group (or if you prefer a group username and a group password) and you may have your own area to share with your friends.

No advertising will be sent to your email, no ask for money, nothing will start from that registration: some space can be created for you and you'll be free to share it with anybody, just invite your group.

Whenever you want to meet your friends online, to write a message on your group's private board, to create your own free guestbook, to read some news left for you, just insert you own username and password and you will access your group's private area.

Remember to specify the group you want to join by sending an email through the "Contact us" link.

Our idea is to extend Joomper adding always new functionalities, and always free. Just come to see what's new and we will try to update our offers to provide new services for your needs. Just be patient.
